CHICAGO BANK PLACES BAN ON MARRIAGE OF MALE EMPLOYEES PAID LESS THAN $125 MONTHLY

CHIEF OF LEGION OPPOSES BONUS PLAN

Urges Beneficial Legislation Making Other Provisions Differences of View Develop as President.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Differences of view on granting a bonus to service men have developed during the hearings before the House Ways and Means committee, Franklin D. Roosevelt, national commander of the American Legion, in accordance with the resolutions adopted by the national convention of the legion, submitted recommendations which will all reference to a cash or bond bonus. Instead they recommend legislation covering the following features:

First, land settlement covering farms in all states and not confined to a few states; second, houses to encourage purchase of houses in either country or city; third, vocational training for all ex-service persons desiring it; and, fourth, adjustment of compensation of first adjustment of extra back pay based on length of service for those not desiring to avail themselves of any one of the previous three features.

The American Legion asks for no bonus. Commander D. J. D'Almeida said: "I want a bonus that sounds too much like a gift or a present from the government to assist the ex-service man in overcoming some of the financial disadvantages incident to his military or naval service."

Walter W. Burns of Green Point, N. Y., a former artillery captain, declared that a money handout would simply be given away. He said that practically all ex-service men are now employed, and contended that the satisfaction of having fought to defend the country was sufficient reward.

"If the war had continued two weeks more every American soldier would have been so tickled he wouldn't want any bonus," he added.

Statements by other representatives of soldier organizations indicated that a difference of opinion prevails as to the desirability of granting a bonus. One proposal favored the extension of preferential rights of entry on all public lands to ex-service men.

TRANSMISSION LINE PATROLS REAL HIKERS

Some Men Employed by West Penn
Power Company Average 40 Miles
a Week, the Year Round.

Railroad track walkers do considerable traveling on foot, but the real records for long distance walking are those kept up by the men who patrol electric transmission lines. Some of them average 40 miles a week and that is some walking, taking into consideration that it's over hills and dale and in all kinds of weather.

Transmission lines are constantly patrolled in an effort to prevent interruptions in the service. The West Penn Power company has a man in the Connelville district who devotes his entire time to that work. Each day he covers a different "beat." Some of the lines he gets over twice a week, especially in bad weather, for there is a possibility of trouble at any time. Monday he may walk to Uniontown and "walk the line" back to the power station at Connelville, a stretch of 12 miles. Tuesday will likely see him going to Perryopolis to patrol the line between there and Dickerson Run, a distance of eight or nine miles. Early next morning sees him starting on a hike of six miles from Dickerson Run to Connelville, and his patrol for Thursday is from Connelville to Indian Creek, a little junk of not less than five miles.

The line patrolman is trained to detect things that may cause trouble. He can hear a hissing sound transmitted through a pole and he knows an insulator has been cracked. He may see a tree-upteen and liable to fall on the line. A loose brace may come within his notice. Whatever it is, he makes note of it, marking down the number of the pole and which crossarm. He then reports to the load dispatcher at the Connelville power station. The load dispatcher immediately takes steps to restore the line to normal. Incidentally, the load dispatcher is complete dictator over the company's private telephone line. When he wants the line for use in his business, he takes it even if the president of the company happens to be talking. His business is to keep current flowing and to do so he must keep in telephone communication with points on his system.

Presiding Elder

Feels Ten Years Younger

Rev. W. H. J. Powell, presiding elder of the Fordyce District West Arkansas Conference, Camden, Arkansas, says "one of my parishioners recommended Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Tablets to me and I thank God I found this remedy for I really believed I should have died I had not found it. My strength has been restored and I feel ten years younger. Before I used Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Tablets, I used to be so weak, at times I had to hold on to the pulpit while delivering my sermons. There were nights when the slightest noise would awaken me as the closing of a door or the flapping of a window shade. I was nervous, had lost control of my bowels, and sometimes it seemed as though there was no feeling in my lower limbs." Sold by Druggists at 60 cents. Special, (Stronger more Active 90 cents).

UNLARNED DOGS AND UNFAITHFUL OFFICERS OF THE LAW.
If merchants of any class or kind were obliged to endure a more or less constant depletion of their stock and a complete disorganization of their business at intervals, because of the existence of "conditions" officers of the law could never be expected to do, they would be very apt to make vigorous complaint. If mechanics or workmen of any class were subjected to a similar more or less constant loss of tools or material with which to work, through the negligence of foremen or other officials they, too, would give voice to a very insistent demand that measures be taken to stop the interference with their means of livelihood. In either case an organized movement would no doubt be started with a view to correcting the conditions.

Apply these illustrations to the business of sheep-raising and an idea can be formed of how the continued destruction and injury of sheep by worthless and vicious dogs is regarded by the farmers. As a service to the illustration, I will clear the report of Secretary Harrison of the Department of Agriculture, giving the statistics of the ravages of dogs among livestock in the state during 1919, needs no other comment than the secretary himself makes when saying:

"Dogs running at large, in violation of the act of assembly of 1917, cost the various counties of the state $79,397.43 during 1919. As a result of the damage done, while $550 sheep in the state were either killed or injured by the dogs."

"Since the dog laws of 1917 have been in operation 147,053 dogs have been killed in the state, while during that period, the various counties paid out the sum of $1,641,723.33 in damages to sheep, poultry and live stock owners, as the result of the depredations of dogs running at large."

"In almost every instance, the sheep and poultry have been killed by unleashed dogs. The future of the sheep and wool industry in the state of Pennsylvania, depends largely upon the various county and city officers charged with the enforcement of the dog act of 1917."

"If the constables, police officers and county commissioners carry out the dog law provisions to the full, insuring that every dog owner secure licenses for his dogs and that the dogs be kept in restraint, the meadows and hills of the state will abound with sheep, for farmers will find it profitable, while the county commissioners will find it unnecessary to pay out thousands of dollars each year in damage claims growing out of dogs attacking the sheep, other live stock and poultry."

Is not the loss the industry of sheep raising is suffering too big a price to pay for inefficiency and neglect on the part of unfaithful officers of the law?

ARE YOUNG MEN LESS AMBITIOUS THAN TWENTY YEARS AGO?

The message of Governor Sprout setting aside the two weeks beginning next Monday to "re-educate" the newly reorganized National Guard of Pennsylvania, is not a call to arms to repel the invasion of a foreign foe, or to meet some dire emergency; hence it does not have the thrill of war-time. It is, however, just as necessary a call to duty on the part of all patriotic citizens who can assist in the important task of reorganization.

The appeal of the governor presents to red-blooded young men the rare opportunity of perpetuating the honor, glory and good name the 28th Division won as the most famous national guard division serving overseas in the World War. Such a privilege comes but once in a generation as this history of the Tenth Regiment has shown. The men who took part in its reorganization after the Spanish-American War, and remained with the unit, were those who attained high rank, honor, the National Guard officers in the World War.

Richard Coulter, Jr., of Greensburg, a second lieutenant in the Philippines, became a brigadier general and was in command of one of the most important base sections in France. "Joe" Thompson, a "duck" private in the ranks in '98, came home from France as colonel in command of the 110th Infantry. Similarly Edward Martin, a private, rose to second in command of the same regiment, as also Henry Coulter who became lieutenant colonel of the 108th Infantry. The list might be prolonged indefinitely, but for purposes of illustration, the naming of officers most intimately known in this section is sufficient. The future colonel and generals will come from the young men of today just as they have been recruited in times past.

Surely the young men of 1920 are not less ambitious than those of 20 years ago.

The police department might hold an "opening day" now, for the cell rooms have been refurbished, and made safe for democracy.

Does a Mitchell Palmer recall what happened six years ago when he led another "hope" which appeared less glorious than the one he has now essayed?

We wait with patience, and some curiosity the publication of the telegram of Judge Bonnellwell congratulating Honorable Bruce upon his appointment as state chairman of the Bar-keepers.

If Congress really wants to find a source for raising funds to provide adequate compensation for service men, why not direct its attention to the profits which the put things over the consumers while the boys were going near the top in France and Flanders?

The Dresses for afternoons are noticeably more frivolous in development. While taffets in billowy, bouffant effects are undeniably the most popular. Dresses of clinging tricettes, shimmering satins and sheer Georgettes are close seconds.

THE PARAMOUNT.
"WATER, WATER, EVERYWHERE"—Starring Will Rogers, the wit of the Follies and the Midway Plaisance, is being shown today. In this play, which is a screen version of the "Billy Budd" story which Rogers plays the part of a generous, fearless cowboy who helps reform a worthless drunkard in order that he may marry the girl whom Billy (Rogers) himself loves. There is a lot of fun in the picture, but underlying it is a sweet and appealing story of redemption and self-sacrifice. Rogers shows himself capable of depicting grief, disappointment and sorrow in addition to those comic graces which have made millions laugh.

The scenes of the story are laid in the Wyoming cattle country.
